Bio (300 Words or Less):

Andrew Gray
I am from Waterboro, Maine. I received my undergrad diploma from Plymouth State College. By learning the teaching games for understanding model I became interested in being a PE teacher instead of a gym teacher. I started teaching at the elementary level in York, Maine in a district that supported the wellness goals and valued my program. From there I moved on to Eliot Elementary School where the district showed even more commitment to the wellness of their students and staff. In addition to teaching I have coached basketball, volleyball and soccer. I am a Maine AHPERD past president and now serve as the coordinator of the Outstanding Future Professionals committee. My family (wife, 2 daughters, and 1 son) are the biggest supporters of my work. They put up with my absence from home so I can be a part of all these endeavors!
